How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

- For the 12 months ended December 31, 2024, the Fund performed in line with its benchmark, the CRSP US Small Cap Value Index.
- U.S. economic growth hovered around 3% on a year-over-year basis for much of the period, and consumer price inflation trended lower, falling below 3% in July. The Federal Reserve began cutting short-term interest rates in September, which boosted stock returns, as did the prospect of tax cuts and deregulation under the incoming administration. But near the end of the period, reduced expectations for further rate cuts weighed on stock returns and bond prices.
- Ten of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns. Financial and industrial stocks contributed the most to the benchmark's return. Consumer discretionary and real estate also performed well. Basic materials, the only sector that posted a negative return, was the lone detractor.
- For the decade ended December 31, 2024, the Fund performed in line with its benchmark, which returned nearly 9%, annualized.
